Accreditation of European Statisticians

2019-07-07

FENStatS is inviting its member organisations (hereafter Partners) and their members to participate in the described system for accreditation of statisticians (hereafter the System).

The overall goal is to increase the quality of statistical work and information and thereby supporting mankind with statistical information in any field where statistics can give useful guidance.

The purpose of the accreditation system is to provide a common European standard for defining the statistical profession, to provide steps for the applied statisticians and simplify the description of merits.

The system shall be transparent, clear, objective and non-discriminant. It shall not be limited to certain fields of applications, methods or software. It shall not be used as a method for political, religious or commercial purposes others than as support for scientifically supported knowledges and facts.

The accreditation shall be voluntary.

The criteria shall be based on generally accepted scientific principles and general criteria of merit that is supported by relevant needs for credibility and usefulness of statistics in society.

FENStatS and the national partner organisations share a common responsibility for the Accreditation, where FENStatS is setting and owning the common standard and the national partners are in charge of the operative implementation.

The System shall be constructed to achieve mutual recognition among other similar systems.

Article I. Name

1. The name of the accreditation shall be Accredited European Statistician

Article II. Scope

1. The accreditation is a recognition that the accredited person has sufficient experience and other merits that all together indicate that he/she can serve as statistician in an independent and professional way.
2. The accreditation is based on documentation provided by the applicant.
3. FENStatS does not accept liability for the actions of any Accredited European Statistician.

Article III. Participation of member organisations (Partners)

1. A FENStatS Partner notifies FENStatS that they intend to offer accreditation to their members. Notification is sent to FENStatS Executive Committee, according to instructions given separately.
2. Partners participating in the accreditation system are responsible for the approval process for its members.
3. Partners shall in the notification accept to follow these by-laws and other instructions issued under them and forthcoming amendments.
4. A Partner can withdraw its participation at any time by notifying the Executive Committee of FENStatS. Members already accredited by the recalling Partner will still be recognized as accredited statisticians by FENStatS. Applications under review shall be finalised by the withdrawing Partner.
5. A Partner that deliberately misuses, commits actions directed against the purpose of the system or its parts can have the participation revoked by the Executive Committee of FENStatS.

Article IV. Role of FENStatS Executive Committee

FENStatS Executive Committee is representing FENStatS, and as such the ownership of the accreditation system.

Article V. Role of FENStatS Accreditation Committee

1. FENStatS Accreditation Committee (AC) is handling the operative matters on behalf of the Executive Committee.
2. The AC is appointed by the Executive Committee after proposals from the Partners. It elects a chairperson among its members.
3. The AC will annually, and when deemed necessary, review the actions undertaken by Partners. A Partner that is not following the by-laws can be forced to withdraw its participation.
4. The AC is taking decisions of revokal of accreditation.
5. The AC shall keep documentation of the accreditation system and records of the accredited members.
6. A majority of the AC members shall be accredited statisticians.

Article VI. Role of participating member organisations

1. The Partners appoint a person representing themselves to FENStatS (hereafter the Representative) concerning accreditation.
2. The Partners appoint sufficient numbers of auditors, not less than three per Partner, for review of applications of their members.
3. The Partners may establish an appropriate local institutional organisation in charge of the operation of the accreditation system.
4. The auditors are also allowed to consult with other experts if necessary.
5. Auditors shall be accredited statisticians.

Article VII. Application

1. A statistician, who is a member of a Partner can apply for accreditation. The application is submitted to his/her Partner organisation.
2. By applying the applicant approves to the rules and conditions set out in these by-laws, ethical guidelines and any other document issued under them.
3. The local institutional body, established by the Partner, accepts or rejects the application. An application can also be accepted given that certain evidence is appended to the application or certain questions are responded.
4. The decisions are reported to the AC.
5. The AC issues proof of accreditation.

Article VIII. Recognition of foreign accreditations

1. The Executive Committee can, after hearing the AC, sign a mutual recognition with foreign organisations that provide systems for accreditation that is equivalent with the FENStatS System.
2. A statistician, who fulfils the requirement for European accreditation, and is accredited by a mutually recognised foreign organisation, can apply for accreditation by submitting his/her foreign credentials.
3. An application according to point 2 is submitted to the AC for decision.

Article IX. Financing

1. The costs for operating the accreditation system shall be carried primarily by the accredited statisticians on a non-profit basis.
2. The applicant is charged a fee for application.
3. Accredited members are charged an annual fee.
4. FENStatS can charge the Partners parts of the fees under 2 and 3. The financial by-laws of FENStatS shall incorporate corresponding guidelines.

Article X. Recall and time limits

1. An Accredited European Statistician can have his/her accreditation recalled.
2. An Accredited European Statistician that no longer is a member of a Partner shall no longer maintain status as accredited.
3. An accreditation is valid for a period of 5 years.

Article XI. Revokal

1. An Accredited European Statistician that violates the by-laws, any law or ethical standard for which he/she is bound, is violating scientific principles or in other ways brings disreputation to statistics and statisticians in general can have his/her accreditation revoked.
2. An Accredited European Statistician that is being expelled from his/her member organisation can also have his/her accreditation revoked.
3. Decision on revokal shall be taken by FENStatS Executive Committee on request of the AC. A decision shall not be taken before the Partner and the member has been given a reasonable time to answer.
4. The Executive Committee decision is final.

Article XII. Ownership

1. Any proprietary property, including, but not limited to standards, procedures, instructions, logotypes and templates are owned and trademarked of FENStatS.
2. Any use not approved by FENStatS is illegal.
3. The accreditation is not transferable and does not apply to the Accredited European Statistician's organisation of affiliation etc.
4. The Executive Committee shall take necessary actions to protect the integrity of the system.

Article XIII. Interpretation

1. If in doubt or ambiguity, these by-laws and any other rule, shall be interpreted for the purpose set out in the preamble and in the FENStatS statutes.
2. The Executive Committee has the final decision in any question arising from an interpretation of these by-laws and any other rule.

Transitional rules

1. Referring to Article V(6): Before a sufficient number of accredited statisticians are available the AC can temporarily consist of other well recognised members. Such members are encouraged to apply for accreditation.
2. Referring to Article VI(4): Before a sufficient number of accredited statisticians are available, the auditors can be elected temporarily among well recognised members. Accreditations approved by not accredited auditors are revised by the AC.
3. Referring to Article IX: Cost for investing and build up of the system shall be distributed over a reasonable long time, not to cause higher fees when the system is new than later.
